

3D Printing of a Hand Model

3D Printing of a Hand Model

3D printing of a hand model using a removable material. The model is designed to be easily removed from the printer bed. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range.

MAX@ acceptable

-Moisture-

The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range.

microshell EPS

The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range. The model is made of a material that is compatible with the printer's temperature range.

